For the name for the tree, I thought Irathient would be best. Here are some options. Consider both the sounds of each word and its etymology (note: any of these words can be used by themselves, or with the English word "tree" after):

dimbisa (s1e1sc32\_1.mp3)

dim-BI-sa

dimbisa

"dimbisa"

Notes: Derives from a similar-looking animal from the Irathient homeworld. The type of name this is is similar to a name like "spider plant": the names comes from the look of the branches.

dígyi (s1e1sc32\_2.mp3)

DI-gyi

digyi

"digyi"

Notes: Derives from the same root as the word for "give".

dígba (s1e1sc32\_3.mp3)

DIG-ba

digba

"digba"

Notes: Derives from the same root that gives us the words "heart", "life", "spirit" and "vitality".

díssa (s1e1sc32\_4.mp3)

DIS-sa

dissa

"dissa"

Notes: Derives ultimately from the same root that gives us "flow", "time" and "shaman".

dizuhákta (s1e1sc32\_5.mp3)

di-zu-HAK-ta

dizuhakta

"dizuhakta"

Notes: Derives from the same root as "survival". and "shaman".

diniha (s1e1sc32\_6.mp3)

di-NI-ha

diniha

"diniha"

Notes: Derives from the same root as "familiar" (i.e. this is a tree that will remind Votans of home).
